WORKHOPS

1. Workshop 1. Asistarea persoanelor LGBT susținut de Asist. univ. dr. Iuliana Elena Molnar (IN ROMANIAN)

DESCRIEREA WORKSHOPULUI:

În lucrul cu persoanele LGBT, este important să ținem cont de câteva aspecte specifice legate de formarea și asumarea identității sexuale/de gen, precum și de efectul stereotipurilor și al prejudecăților asupra demersului de autoacceptare. De aceea, în cadrul acestui workshop, vom explora modul în care mitologiile sociale și comunitare cu privire la sexualitate și rolurile de gen influențează procesul unic prin care fiecare individ se definește pe sine, atât la nivel individual, cât și în relație cu societatea în sens mai larg. Totodată, vom aborda și modalitățile prin care putem construi o relație profesională bazată pe empatie, încredere și acceptare cu persoanele LGBT asistate. Workshopul va avea un caracter interactiv, bazat pe o serie de exerciții experiențiale.

DESCRIEREA FACILITATORULUI:

Iuliana Elena Molnar este doctor în psihologie, asistent universitar în cadrul Facultății de Psihologie și Științele Educației, psihoterapeut specializat în Psihoterapia Experiențială a Unificării. Workshop 1: Assisting LGBT people

DETAILS OF WORKSHOP IN ENGLISH

WORKSHOP DESCRIPTION:

In working with LGBT people, it is important to take into consideration few specific aspects regarding the development of sexual/gender identity, as well as the effect of stereotypes and prejudices over the self-acceptance process.

That is why, in this workshop, we will explore the way in which social and communitarian mythologies regarding sexuality and gender roles influence the unique process through which every individual defines himself, not only at an individual level, but also in relation to society. We will also approach the different ways that we can use to build a professional relationship with LGBT people, based on empathy, trust and acceptance. The workshop will have an interactive character, based on a series of experiential activities.

Despre legătura victimă-agresor, despre motivele care o determină pe femeia victimă a violenței intime să rămână în relația abuzivă, dar și despre serviciile specializate pe care le oferă Asociația ANAIS, vom discuta pe larg în cadrul acestui workshop.

In the 90th, Germany was a place of asylum for 350.000 refugees from the former Yugoslavian countries. Since 2015 1,1 million asylum-seekers entered Germany. 5. Workshop 5: "The Importance of Teacher's Self-Reflection in Creating a Trauma-Informed School Social work" susținut de Assist. Prof. H. Özden Bademci (IN ENGLISH)

WORKSHOP DESCRIPTION

A trauma-informed approach in school social work practices requires interdisciplinary teamwork. Creating a trauma-informed school culture is an ongoing work, as there are constant changes in the system at a macro, meso- and micro level.

The school social worker could have a vital role to help schools create effective collaborative networks that open new possibilities for change that convey empathy and safety. In order to create a positive learning environment, students' social and emotional learning should be supported but this cannot be achieved without addressing the needs of the teachers. The trauma-informed school social worker is well aware of the teachers' secondary trauma and burnout. The relationship between learning/teaching and personal experience is quite complex and teacher self-reflection capacity plays an important part in that. This workshop derives from the idea that a better understanding of the nature of the emotional factors that enter into the process of learning and teaching is crucial to work towards a more fruitful relationship as this would help teachers to disentangle which of the feelings and consequent actions are driven by their own personal make-up and which are a result of particular dynamic created by a student (Waddel, 1999; Wilson, 2003; Youell, 2006; Zembylas, 2005).

In trauma-informed education practices, children feel safe and connected (Perry, 2016). Understanding the effects of adverse experiences in early years helps teachers to effectively address behavioural problems. Teachers are in a key position to notice signs of distress and difficulties that children have as they could provide professional insight.

Making judgments about the students is not a straight forward and easy process. Children mainly show what is on their minds through their behaviour, attitude and by the way they relate to the others and to the teachers. In many cases, difficulties are not that obvious so that teachers have the need to share and think through their experiences with other staff (Wilson, 2003). Peer-supervision helps against the insecurity, anxiety and helplessness experienced by the teachers to improve service quality and the institutional culture to progress towards a cooperative professional community in control of their work environment (Bademci, Karadayı, Pur-Karabulut & Warfa, 2016). In this workshop, the attitudes and expectations that the teacher brings to the relationship and the relevance of observational methods in a school context will be explored together with the participants.

Assist. Prof. H. Özden Bademci is the Director of Maltepe University Research and Application Centre for Street Children, Psychology Lecturer, Istanbul, Turkey.

6. Workshop 6: "The possibilities and challenges of communication in social work (Posibilitățile și provocările comunicării în asistență socială)" susținut de Conf. univ. dr. Lucija VEJMELKA și Lect. univ. dr. Mirela ANGHEL (IN ENGLISH)

WORKSHOP DESCRIPTION

Communication is one of the most important topics when it comes to relationships. Education on communication skills should be lifelong learning goal for every professional.

Improving communication skills is crucial for social work profession. Some of the global trends and social circumstances are changing the way we communicate with others. Today we are witnessing rapid development of modern technology in all areas of everyday life, primarily in communication.

Interpersonal communication is changing, our self, our families, students and users are changing the patterns of communication. In our everyday life we expect quick response and information to address our needs and desires of the moment.

Butterflies as a symbol of transformation, by ANAIIS Association

In March this year, along with the ladies from the support groups, we started to manufacture butterfly and heart shaped pillows. The shape of the pillows was not chosen randomly, each having a special symbolism.

Butterflies as a symbol of transformation. A transformation for which we looked beyond diagnosis, beyond the echoes of helplessness. We searched and built together, heart to heart, hoping for the better. Our hands joined together to carry forward the hope, the living flame of life and from suffering we created a spring, a piece of beauty, which we can give to everyone.

Hearts as a symbol of solidarity and encouragement, hearts with a story. The concept was developed by ABC Breast Care, starting from the need of a patient. Heart shaped pillows come in support of women who underwent mastectomy surgery interventions and represent an aid in the post-operative period and after. It is specially designed in the shape of a heart so it can be placed under the armpit without creating discomfort. Its role is to help them avoid the contact between the arm and the operated area and offer them a more comfortable position.

ANAIIS Association headquarters became a tailor shop where each team member worked side by side with the support group beneficiaries of the project "Beyond cancer diagnosis" to create these beautiful pillows. They were crafted painstakingly and with excitement for those who want to support our project and for women who have undergone mastectomy surgeries.

So far, we have participated with the crafted objects at two events, where we managed to offer in return for a donation approximately 150 pillows. With the money that we earned, we will go to the partner hospitals and will provide heart shaped pillows to the ladies who suffered mastectomy surgery. We want to be able to create many pillows and give them to the women who underwent mastectomy surgery!

ANAIIS is an association whose main purpose is to promote, respect and defend the rights of children, young people and women. The Association aims to act in order to change the policies and legislation for the benefit of children, by recognizing and focusing on the responsibilities and duties of parents, teachers and other authorities, also to prevent abandonment and family reintegration by offering support to children and families in need. We offer advice and support for parents and children (families at risk of abandoning their children, at risk of disintegrating families, single parents etc.), counseling and expertise in social, educational, child protection and health matters.

We are members of WAVE - an european network that fights against domestic violence and members of ENGAGE p the European Network of Gynecological Cancer Advocacy Groups, whose main objective is to support, inform and guide women that have been diagnosed with different forms of gynecological cancer. Through the partnerships with the Bucharest University Hospital and Coltea Hospital, we deliver informational materials mainly to women diagnosed with breast or cervical cancer.

ANAIIS Association is developing three major projects: - "Stop the domestic violence" - offering to victims of domestic violence free counseling and social guidance, legal advice on their rights and helping them to obtain an order of protection and counseling;

- "Yes, we can help you" - psychological counseling (support groups) for women diagnosed with breast cancer or cervical cancer;

- "Charitable and supportive actions" - for the people in need.

The actions carried out by ANAIIS Association aim to increase the quality of life, especially for women and children from disadvantaged families, to prevent social exclusion and support social acceptance.

Loubijou jewellery are living history creations especially made for unique women capable of strong emotions and feelings. Natural pearls and crystals remind us of the earth strength and the eternity of time, natural leather and semiprecious metal create a permanent connection with nature. Loubijou jewellery purpose is to delight and to bring joy in women's lives.

We met Lucia at ALIAT. She is one of the most active, dynamic, joyful and friendly persons I've ever known. The jewellery she creates, mirror her energy and delicacy, a beautiful mixture of fragility and strength. Her line of jewellery represents more than a simple hobby and a way of earning a living, but it is her life story that stays behind her art, revealed her creativity and encourages her to move on every day.
